Life of President Coolidge's Son Hangs by Thread

CALVIN JR., PUTS UP MAGNIFICENT BATTLE FOR LIFE

HOPE IS SLENDER
President and Mrs. Coolidge at Bedside of Boy in Hospital.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Washington.—The last point of gravity was reached this morning in the condition of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., son of the president, suffering from pneumonia at Walter Reed army hospital.

He was clinging to life with wonderful tenacity, but hope was about all that was held out for his recovery. All of his medical attendants were remaining close by and finding as chiefly marvelous the stamina the boy was exhibiting.

Progress of Infection.

Gas was found to be forming in the stomach and additional evidence of the progress of infection, and making it impossible for him to take nuttrition by the ordinary means. The president and Mrs. Coolidge were remaining immediately at hand.

Despite the favorable conditions, his bedside watchers and physician still held to hope that he might recover by means of the determined fight he is making for his life.

Lunched at White House.

After a consultation of physicians early this afternoon, President and Mrs. Coolidge decided to go to the White House for luncheon, indicating that the doctors felt that their patient was not actually in a dying condition.

Rally Remarkable.

Young Calvin's fever descended during the night to a point where it was considered most improbable and his remarkable recovery was reported as one of the occurrences in medical practice which happens only on rare occasions. The fever had abated considerably today, but still was at a very dangerous point.

Despite all of this, however, the boy retained a clear mind during most of the time and was able, when his father and mother finally left the room, to tell them good night.

Battle to Finish Seen as Factions Hug Bitter Hate

Madison Square Garden—East is east and west is west and apparently never the twain shall meet in democratic politics. The age-old fight for control waged by Tammany Hall and its affiliated organizations of business leadership in New Jersey, Massachusetts and Illinois has come to a head in the Clark-Wilson fight of 1912 and again in the San Francisco convention of 1920, and today it is the underlying cause of the deadlock which has prevented the democratic national convention from making a presidential nomination after two weeks of acrimonious sessions.

The document, on which the foreign office chiefs worked hard all day Sunday, was submitted to the premier on his return from Troyes last night.

Paris.—The Paris and London governments are working assiduously to unite a front from before the conference of the international conference in the middle of this month.

Count De Stavast, French ambassador to Great Britain, has arrived from London to enlighten Premier Herriot as to the latest view of the situation and tomorrow the French representatives will receive memoranda in which the premier will set forth clearly the views of his government for communication to the powers which are to attend the London conference.

STATE CAPITAL IN BRAZIL IN HANDS OF REBEL FORCES

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ijuina, Brazil.—Sao Paulo, second largest city in Brazil and capital of the country's wealthiest state, was reported early today to still be in the hands of the lawless revolutionaries who, with tons of dynamite, seized the government buildings during Friday night and Saturday morning in a sudden uprising marked by sanguinary street fighting.

Owing to the strict censorship imposed by the federal government in Rio Janeiro, whatever news of the revolution is unknown here.

It appears sufficiently formidable, however, to cause the federal government at Rio Janeiro to dispatch troops by land and sea as well as air forces to attempt its suppression.

PROGRESSIVES QUIT AFTER ENDORSING SEN. LA FOLLETTE

CONVENTION REFUSES TO FORM THIRD PARTY AT PRESENT.

SOCIALISTS STICK

Selection of Vice Presidential Candidate Left to Senator and Committee.

Cleveland.—With the endorsement of Robert M. La Follette and the acceptance of the Wisconsin platform as the basis of the fight to be made for his election, the Conference for Progressive Political Action adjourned.

There were about the only things happening after the report Saturday afternoon:

1.—Endorsement of Robert M.

2.—Refusal to form a third party until after the election when there are votes enough another party will be made.

3.—Bitter denunciation of the La Follette bosses by the Communists—Radicalists, heretofore supporting La Follette and with a platform of their own.

4.—Refusal of the socialists to make a fight for a separate party and agreement that the socialists would support La Follette.

Elgin, Ill.—Doris Page and Goldie Nelson, children of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, bruised.

The accident happened about four miles from Janesville and is believed to have occurred when Mr. Nelson lost control of the machine when a farm youth, leading a cow, crossed the road.

The thought was going to steer directly into the cow," said Mr. Nelson, "and I lost control of the car, heading it into the ditch."

The car is said to have swung completely around, throwing the occupants from it. They were attended by Dr. William Bohan, Elgin, and chief surgeon of the Chicago and Elgin Illinois railroad, and Miss Smith and Miss Nelson, who was driving by. Mrs. Nelson and Miss Smith were taken to Mercy hospital in the police ambulance.

Victim of River Buried, Sunday

JANESVILLE.—Funeral services for Joseph H. Peterson, 50, president of the Central Dairy company, Rockford, and a World War veteran, who drowned Thursday in Rock River near Indian Ford, were held at the home of Rockford Sunday, the Rev. H. M. Burnham officiating.

Burial was made in the Scandinavian cemetery.

Peterson drowned when a boat, in which he and two others had started out to fish, capsized but a few feet from shore, in the swift back current.

The little girl had been lighting firecrackers throughout the day, according to her parents, and had obtained a supply of matches. It is believed she had ignited all of the explosives and was lighting the remaining matches.

As she sat on the ground one of the matches ignited the hem of her dress. In a moment

POULTRY TOUR IN COUNTY JULY 9TH

Trip to Leading Poultry Farms of County—Other Poultry News.

The Rock County Poultry association will hold its first annual tour Wednesday, July 9, the convoy meeting at the court house at 10 a.m.

The White Leghorn farm of Mark Baum will be visited during the morning. A picnic dinner will be served at the farm. Other farms, Riverdale, will be visited. After dinner the following farms will be visited, for the inspection of the best offered in Rock county: E. S. Van Gaalen, Beloit; Mrs. Carl Haas, Beloit; A. F. Kreuger, Avalon; W. J. Pharrine, Avalon. Poultry authorities from the Wisconsin college of agriculture will participate in the tour and demonstrations.

Poultry High Flocks

Madison—Rod hens, white hens, black hens, and barred hens sought to outdo each other in the egg laying business for the month of May, but the report of J. B. Hayes, poultry extension specialist of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, shows that the single comb White Leghorns led both the flocks of less than 100 and those of over 100.

Among the 10 highest flocks of less than 100 hens on the demonstration farms of the state, Mrs. Louis Pampurin's flock of single comb White Leghorns in Washington county led with an average production of 25.62 eggs per hen. The production of the other nine high flocks follows: Mrs. Antone Michel, 24.50; Mrs. John L. Lachhorn, and Wauwatosa, 21.12; average Robert E. Smiley, Green county, rose comb Rhode Island Red, 23.08; eggs avarege; Mrs. Elias Ott, Clark, Rhode Island Red, 22.57; George McKay, Columbia, Barred Plymouth Rock, 22.51; Mrs. H. A. Main, Jefferson, N. W., Plymouth Rock, 21.97; Mr. E. N. Hartman, Outagamie, single comb White Leghorn, 21.55; Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Bloomingdale, single comb White Leghorn, 21.06; Mrs. W. H. Baker, Barron, White Avondale, 20.75; A. P. Jensen, Taylor, single comb White Leghorn, 20.52.

Flocks of more than 100 hens were forced to acknowledge Mrs. John Sherman's flock of single comb White Leghorns in Langlade county as their leader. This flock produced an average for each hen of 23.82 eggs during the month of May. Other high records were made by the flocks of Warren Dussem, Fond du Lac county, single comb White Leghorn, 23.66; Paul Woebelung, Rusk, single comb White Leghorn, 23.03; W. S. Bennett, Juneau, single comb White Leghorn, 22.77; Mrs. C. L. Owen, Trempealeau, single comb White Leghorn, 21.91; John Rahr, Waukesha, Barred Plymouth Rock, 21.52; August J. Paul, Milwaukee, single comb White Leghorn, 21.40; Mrs. John Andres, Marathon, 21.38; George Olds, Sawyer, single comb White Leghorn, 21.07; Adam Schaefer, Taylor, rose comb Rhode Island Red, 20.42; Mrs. Emily Stoddard, Richland, white comb White and Brown Leghorn, 20.23; Mrs. Herman Hartman, Monroe, single comb White Leghorn, 20.18; H. N. Graves, Jefferson, single comb White Leghorn, 19.57; G. H. Butzke, Marathon, single comb White Leghorn, 19.36; Mrs. G. L. Carter, Clark, single comb White Leghorn, 18.82.

WINTER VETCH IS GIVING RESULTS SEEDED WITH CORN

Madison—Corn has a new companion crop—winter vetch.

This is the suggestion of H. W. Alberts, of the agronomy department of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. He says: "Among the different legumes needed in combination with corn, winter vetch has given promising results."

"Vetch when seeded in corn is planted at the time of the last cultivation, usually the first or second week of July. It should be sown at a rate of 25 pounds to the acre."

EDITOR HOPKINS IS ON EUROPEAN TOUR

Madison—Andrew W. Hopkins, editor of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, has gone to Europe as the editorial representative of a Wisconsin farm paper. With a number of other farm editors he left New York recently on the steamship Leviathan. He will visit France, Italy, the island of Jersey, the Isle of Guernsey, and will probably spend some time on the continent.

Hopkins plans to attend the British Empire Exposition at Wimborne, England, and the British Royal Show. He will visit the world's oldest and best known experiment station at Rothamsted, England, and plan to visit Brittany and probably Paris. In the home of the "Pereheron horse" in the course of his trip he will call on Sir Horace Bluntell, the great Irish authority on co-operation, who was a frequent visitor of Wisconsin.

NEW CATTLE BARN AT BADGER COLLEGE

Madison—A new beef cattle barn, 108 feet long, 40 feet wide, and 25 feet high in the center, is being built at the University of Wisconsin Experiment Station farm here. The new barn will be a wooden building. Cattle will be stabled on the first floor in 12 large bays, and six or more smaller stalls will be provided. The capacity of the barn will be about 45 cattle. The first floor also provides feed bins and a small office and record room. On the second floor there will be space for the storage of roughage and grain. Construction of the new barn with its equipment will cost approximately $14,000.

MONTICELLO GIRL MARRIED THURSDAY

Monticello—Miss Emma Rothberger, Monticello, and John M. Bradhead, were married at 11 a.m. Thursday at the parsonage of the Rev. A. Mueller, minister of the Methodist church. The couple left for Milwaukee after the wedding ceremony to spend a few days. They will make their home in Brookfield.

LEGHORNS WIN AS LAYERS DURING MAY

Madison—Single Comb White Leghorn hens outstripped all other types of chickens at laying eggs during May, as far as flocks on state demonstration farms are concerned, Dr. J. B. Hayes, poultry extension specialist of the state college of agriculture, reports. Mr. Hayes declares that Single Comb Leghorns won the competition in flocks of less than 100, as well as those of more than 100 hens.

STATE FAIR SHOWS.
Madison—The State Fair amusement park concession company, the new $500,000 amusement section of the state fair, has been chartered by the secretary of the state. The firm is without capitalization. Dr. M. Wyllie, C. J. March and Amanda Wyllie are the incorporators.

43 BOYS GO TO ROTARDALE CAMP

Second Installment of Campers Leaves for 10-Day Period.

Forty-three Janesville boys were taken to Camp Rotardale Monday morning, where they will spend the next 10 days. Following a physical examination at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 a.m., they departed in automobiles provided by members of the Rotary club at 9 a.m.

An intensive program, the same as that during the past 10 day period, which ended Saturday, will be carried out. It includes flag raising, cannon salute, morning exercises and lake dip at 8 a.m.; breakfast at 7 a.m.; chapel service, conducted by the leaders in the open air; two hours' work hour; free time, nature study, two tents, athletic training, one tent, and aquatic drill for one tent, from 8:30 to 9:30; beginner's swim period, at 11 a.m.; regular swim period, at 11:30; dinner at 12:30; rest hour from 1 to 2 p.m.; tent competition in athletics early in the afternoon; boating and rowing from 4 to 5 p.m.; beginning swimming period in swimming at 4:30; supper at 6; camp fire at 8:30. An aquatic field meet is held each period, to give all boys an opportunity to earn the 10 points required for the award of the camp emblem.

New Equipment.

In addition to the existing raft, equipped with diving board, a four-foot diving tower and large dock, built in the shape of an L, with diving board, have been completed this year. Plastic boats marking the limits for beginners in swimming and others for diving, competitive games, each painted red and bearing names, have also been placed.

Five boys who did not know how to swim during the last camp period, which ended Saturday, were taught, and passed beginner's tests.

One of the features of the first camp period was a fourth of July boat ride. This year, however, more than 100 went around Green, Middle and Mill lakes. Dr. F. R. Littleman contributed the use of his motor boat for the trip.

Those In Peril.

Those who left Monday are Mason Lichtenfels, John Brondum, Julian Wilbur, James W. Johnson, Marlowe, Jewel Svenson, Ellis Scanlon, George Bremerling, Frank Morstadt, Harry Parrish, Gordon Schultz, Dale Nelson, Harold Bobahn, Harold Peterson, Henry Seward, John McNeil, Leo Huskins, Irvin Folen, John Warden, Robert Cullen, Walter Lichtenfels, Kenneth C. OBITUARY

Arthur P. Bennett, Arthur P. Bennett died at 4 p.m. Saturday at his home in Clinton. The body will be brought to this city and funeral services held at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mrs. and Mrs. E. J. Bennett, 226 Park street.

Mrs. Martha Jane Pester Vail, Whitewater, died at her home on Park street after an illness of four weeks of heart trouble. She was born April 5, 1860, at Cold Spring, Wis., and lived there until her marriage to Floyd Vail of Cold Spring, Feb. 8, 1884, when they moved to the Island farm at Whitewater. They lived there until 1915, when they retired and came to live on Walworth avenue. In 1911 they moved to the present home on Park street.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Haskell Reynolds, Mason City, Iowa, who attended the funeral services.

Brother, James P. Bennett, Milwaukee, was unable to attend the funeral. Two brothers and two sisters preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the home, the Rev. Allen Adams officiating. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

The Candidacy of Mr. La Follette

On a platform of his own writing, without nomination other than his own determination to run, backed by no party, the senior senator from Wisconsin will be a unique figure in the presidential campaign of 1924. There has been a conference, ostensibly called for the purpose of asking Mr. La Follette to be such a candidate, but though it was only to be a gesture, even that was not permitted to be made. Steam rollers heretofore mentioned in political campaigns, have all been little wooden toys compared with the steam roller at Cleveland. The delegates had no instructions from anyone as to action but received an ultimatum that Mr. La Follette was going to be a candidate anyhow and they need not take the trouble to write a platform since he had one all made; and also and further they need not organize a third party with any name since he was going to be the whole chess himself. So the 900 persons representing some several organizations here and there over the country, applauded and endorsed Mr. La Follette after he had endorsed himself unanimously. And again also as to a candidate for the vice presidency, it would be an affront to the senior senator to name anyone as long as he was chauvinizing the whole movement, so they left the selection to him. It is a good bet that Mr. McAdoo or Al Smith would like to be as powerful a boss as La Follette and have 300 delegates eating at the Madison newspaper.

It is to be noted that a Madison newspaper says that "few presidential candidates have been named from so small a town as Madison" and the honor is, therefore, great. It so happens that almost all the presidential candidates, successful ones, at least, have been from towns and cities and villages smaller than Madison. Harding, Wilson, McKinley, Garfield, Hayes, Grant, Johnson, Lincoln, Buchanan, Pierce, Taylor, Tyler, Wm. Henry Harrison, Jackson, Van Buren, and all the rest except the two Adams' were from either out in the country, off the farm, or from small villages and cities at the time of election. The men from large cities have been the Adams', John and John Quincy, Fillmore from Buffalo, and later Grover Cleveland from the same city, Harrison from Indianapolis, Roosevelt and Arthur from New York City, Taft from Cincinnati, and now Coolidge from Northampton, Mass., a smaller city than Madison.

However, no one will attempt to take any glory from Madison in this instance. What the nation is more concerned about is the effect the candidacy will have on the election. Naturally Wisconsin is at once placed in the La Follette column, and other states given him are Minnesota, the two Dakotas and Nebraska with doubt expressed over Iowa and Montana.

There will be a divided democracy. No matter on whom the democratic party may finally conclude to rest the responsibility, the rift is there and it is widening into a gulf. Therefore without any analysis of the merits of the candidacy of the senior senator from Wisconsin, it becomes to the student of election figures a game of interest to figure what is going to happen. It will add plenty of zest to what might otherwise be a dull and insipid campaign.

At a wedding in Connecticut on July 4, four dogs belonging to the bride were permitted to occupy a pew. Perhaps they were dogs of war and the bride believed in preparedness.

Religion and Politics

There is a place for religion in politics though there is no place for politics in religion. If it itself is a religion it lives to the full. It must be, since all moral fundamentals are based on religious faith and belief. Ideals are maintained, unconsciously perhaps in many cases of the human integer, by religious faith. We have been trying, gropingly and blindly to find a way out of war and out of the spirit which leads to war. And yet there is not a far search, for the faith and the plan which uttered 1000 years ago must still influence the world though at times it seems that it has had a hard time to make an impression. It is quite a different thing to have the spirit of faith and works and belief and hope become a part of the political life, which is the real parent of government, than to attempt to carry the dogmas of religion into politics. Patriotism does not ask for that. Service and sacrifice does not ask for that. But in order that we should elevate politics, make government something deeper in conscience than trickery of words and insincerity of purpose, we must instill the same spirit which has made this nation basically strong for more than a century—a spirit of Christianity, tolerance, forgiveness, mental freedom, and liberty of religious action.

You might think they had had music enough but there are scores of democrats who threaten to go from Madison Square Garden right to the republican band wagon.

"We owe a great debt to Europe," cried the political orator. Why, we thought it was the other way.

Maine is having a serious discussion which may arrive at the courts before it is concluded, over the participation of democrats in the republican primary. This, it seems, is not usual in Maine though we have had such a situation here in Wis-

The Marines Leave Santo Domingo

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—With the withdrawal of American marines now in progress, Santo Domingo resumes control of its own affairs. After eight years of American occupation, the country appears to be firmly united under the leadership of president-elect, General Horatio Vasquez, and is, it declares, no longer in need of assistance in running its ship of state. The presidential election, held a couple of months ago was one of the most peaceful in Caribbean history; the finances of the republic are now on a stable basis and it has a strong, well-trained national guard to protect the government's interests.

General Vasquez, who has been in Washington conferring with President Coolidge, Secretary of State Hughes and Sumner Welles, retiring United States high commissioner to Santo Domingo, has given his promise that the policies inaugurated by the American occupation will be carried out by his administration. These include the maintenance of order without outside aid, the scrupulous administration of justice, and the continuance of internal improvements, such as the development of agriculture, good roads and irrigation.

Whether or not Vasquez will be able to keep his promise depends largely, of course, upon the cooperation he receives from the people of Santo Domingo.

When United States marines were landed on the island in 1916, it was to restore order out of political and economic chaos that had lasted many years. As early as 1906, repeated revolutions had left the affairs of the Dominican government in a hopeless state that the United States was compelled to come to its assistance in order to preserve the Monroe Doctrine. A large group of foreign creditors, each ready to present bill with a gunboat, clouded the horizon. Another large group of native creditors, each planning to enforce his claim against the government, by insurrection, agitated the country's interior.

Through its offices, the republic was enabled to secure a loan of $20,000,000 with which to refinance its foreign debts. This was arranged by a bond issue, with the understanding that the bonds were to be paid off in monthly installments from the customs revenues. In an agreement between the two governments, the president of the United States appointed a general receiver of the Dominican customs, who was authorized to collect all the customs duties in the custom-houses of Santo Domingo until the $20,000,000 should be repaid. The amount to be deducted from the customs receipts for the repayment of the loan was $100,000 a month, in addition to the expenses of the general receiverhip. All remaining funds were turned into the treasury of the Dominican government.

In this agreement, moreover, the Dominicans promised a wise and efficient administration of their treasury. They were to pay the salaries of civil employees regularly, in addition to back pay, and any surplus was to be used for the building of public works. They were not to increase the public debt without consulting the United States. But the continued outbreak of revolutions made it impossible to keep this promise. Great sums were expended for military preparations instead of public improvements, and other sums disappeared without explanation. In order to make up deficits, stamps, stamped paper and other government securities were recklessly issued. Thus, within a few years, the republic was again burdened with an enormous interior debt which made the position of the custom-houses extremely unsafe. Once more intervention became necessary, and this time the United States sent its marines to take charge of affairs.

While the five years of American occupation have brought peace and order to Santo Domingo, the presence of the marines has not been relished by the Dominicans. No people enjoys the domination of another, especially when the differences between the two are as vast as those between Dominicans and North Americans. The majority of our marine officers conform to the Anglo-Saxon type; they are blunt, practical, efficient and arrogant, with a talent for administration and a great respect for modern conveniences and comfort. The Dominicans are suave, emotional, impractical, with a talent for ornamental leisure and a graceful acceptance of conditions as they are. Both types are the result of their widely different histories.

All of the islands in the chain that extends from a vast semicircle from the southern coast of Florida to the northeastern coast of Venezuela, Santo Domingo has had the most hectic career. From the day of its discovery by Christopher Columbus, it has known almost constant bloodshed and disaster. It has witnessed the extermination of one race within its boundaries and the virtual extermination of another. Earthquakes and hurricanes have destroyed large portions of its population, and disease has wiped out even greater numbers. The government of the island has always been extremely precarious.

When Columbus and his small fleet landed in Santo Domingo, in December of 1492, in the hope that they had reached Japan, they found an island of great natural beauty and riches, inhabited by friendly Indians. Enchanted with the surroundings, Columbus immediately started the organization of a colonial government on the island; built a fort from the wreckage of one of his ships, and later founded a cathedral. It was evidently his desire to settle there as a planter and governor of the colony. But the atmosphere of Santo Domingo seems to breed conspiracies. The explorer was soon the object of a half-dozen intrigues which kept him busy crossing and recrossing the Atlantic in order to explain his motives to the suspicious King Ferdinand, and at length, disengaged and sick at heart, he decided to remain in Spain.

Later, the son and grandson of Columbus each attempted to settle on the ancestral estate in Santo Domingo but were equally unsuccessful as the result of political intrigues. meantime, the colony of Spanish planters grew rapidly on the labor of the Indian natives, whom they enslaved and put to work in the fields and mines. Unable to stand the long hours of labor, to which their race was unaccustomed, the Indians quickly died out, so that it soon became necessary for the Spaniards to import negroes from Africa and the other islands of the West Indies to work for them. It is this negro strain which, after centuries of political upheaval, is dominant in the island, replacing the old Spanish families just as it replaced the Indians. But the Spanish language and Spanish culture have prevailed through all the vicissitudes of centuries.

When the French attempted to settle in the West Indies, the western half of Santo Domingo—Haiti—fell under their influence and it has never been released.

cousin ever since the primary law was adopted. While we recognize parties and party machinery in Wisconsin state laws we do not recognize party or parties in the voting. Several primaries have been carried in Wisconsin by democratic votes in republican primaries and perhaps that has also occurred in the other way about. In Maine it is a serious act; here a common and well-accepted fact regarding which one may only protest with futility.

Escanaba, which was the last town in Michigan of medium size, to support two daily newspapers now has only one with the consolidation of the Press and the Mirror. All cities of Wisconsin with less than 35,000 population have now only one paper, except Chippewa Falls and Baraboo. Of the larger cities Racine and Madison have two each.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

IN THE VALLEY
They say the scene is glorious from the crest
Of that high mountain. One who has been Whispers of freedom and a world most fair;
Stretching below in splendor east and west;
"Tis there, they say, the eagle builds his nest.
And yet today the daisies here are fair,
And this green valley seems its loveliest
With summer casting jewels everywhere!

I have not strength to climb, nor heart to leave
These scenes where all the friendly faces are
I hear their tales of glory and believe.
But have no wish to journey quite so far.
Down in the valley let my days be spent,
I can find beauty here and be content.

HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, JULY 8, 1924

Astrologers read this as rather an unlucky day. Uranus rules this as a day of bad luck.

The aspects are most unfavorable to women who may be inclined too much toward selfish romance and a desire to command admiration. The stars declare that vanity and egotism will be more than usually apparent in women during the coming summer which will bring to public notice many feminine idiosyncrasies.

Again there are influences tending toward exploration of the realm of the occult. Much interest will be manifested in psychic investigation, but with little result of scientific value.

Astrology will be studied as never before it is prognosticated, and famous teachers will arise to lead the public into knowledge of the ancient belief.

This is not an auspicious planetary government for social assemblies of any sort and meetings, formal or otherwise, are subject to disturbance.

Theaters are subject to a direction of the stars making for far-reaching changes in policy and management.

Return to old standards of acting and to strict professionalism for the stage will mark the future in which there is to be a passing of the popularity of amateur performances.

The position of Mars threatens shipping disasters, strikes and a crisis of some sort in governmental affairs.

Hospitals and institutions for the care of children are to focus much attention during the summer and to benefit from public interest.

Spain and Switzerland are to suffer from serious financial crisis early in the autumn, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthday is should beware of accidents in the coming year. Law suits will be particularly unlucky.

Children born on this day may be quick-tempered and difficult to manage, but these subjects of Cancer should have ability to succeed in their life's vocations. Women born in this sign generally have gayety of disposition and unusual charm of manner.

THE CLOWN OF POLITICS

We need La Follette to add joy to our political campaigns. It is funny, for one thing, to see him try to direct what the republican party really thinks about him. When he has no relation to that party except that of an enemy. But he is not the only man who is always under suspicion just what he means—which is not invariably true of formal political pronouncements—for his language is very robust.

As La Follette sees the fix we are in, it is about as follows:

Our great trouble is "the control of government and industry by private monopoly." La Follette sees double unless he means organized labor and the embattled farmers, in which case he does those parties an injustice. There is no probability of any man not patented and it does not attempt to settle domestic trouble, nor to undertake external expansion.

Write your question plainly and briefly and enclose two cents in stamp for return postage. Give full name and address. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.

Q. What places in history were occupied by the following characters?

A. Ruiz of Rhodes was an Arabian physician who lived from 852 to 922. He is noteworthy as being the first man to describe small pox and measles in an accurate manner. Illegitimate son of a slave, he was Benedictine monk.

La Follette denounces "the Mellon tax plan as a device to relieve multi-millionaires from the expense of other taxpayers." Nobody imagines La Follette to be wise or well informed. But surely he ought to know that the Mellon plan is the only way to collect full taxes from multi-millionaires. Somebody should tell him about it.

La Follette has issued eleven distinct schedules of orders to the republican convention, in the aggregate involving a complete change in the organization of the party.

Q. How many new excise taxes are to be imposed upon every necessity of life consumed by the public?

A. The smallest sum in which a cigarette can be sold is approximately 18 by 4 inches.

Q. Are people allowed to inspect the Shenandoah? J. A. T.

A. Visitors are not allowed aboard the Shenandoah at Lakehurst, N. J. owing to the delicate instruments which are on the airship. However, special privilege is sometimes given allowing people aboard.

Q. I argue that it is useless to turn the gas lights off after the public has gone to bed. Do you condone it?

A. The smallest space in which a cigarette can be sold is approximately 18 by 4 inches.

Q. Are birds fed to chickens, particularly during the molting season when 5 per cent oil meal will help the growth of new feathers?

Q. Can you suggest a slogan or watchword for preventing fires in the national forests? N. A. M.

A. One of the forest service "don'ts" might be paraphrased thus: "Use your own common sense to help preserve your own forests."

WHERE DID YOU GET THAT OR THOSE HIVES?

As we explained, as well as we could in our cramped corner, certain individuals, whose condition is now recognized as "sensitized," are predisposed to hives and others are more or less immune. In a susceptible individual even such a slight irritation as the touch of a cigarette on the skin will cause at least a local outbreak of hives.

This is probably all as clear as mud, but in truth the whole vast problem of allergy, anaphylaxis or sensitization, and its bearing on the vital question of immunity, is still under a haze which the light of research and study has yet to penetrate.

Foods which are famous for causing hives in a susceptible individual are oysters, crabs, lobsters, clams, shrimp, pork, sausage, mushrooms, strawberries, tomatoes, cucumbers, nuts, eggs (in infants taking egg for the first time), dates, oatmeal, honey, vinegar, cheese, raisins, grapes, or their skins or wine made from them.

TODAY'S MARKET

Weekly Livestock Review

Cattle.

Chicago—Responding to unusually light rains during the past 10 days, cattle prices have been on an upward trend, reaching the highest point of last week advanced 25 to 40 cents. Total receipts for the period were $3,740, the smallness being partly due to the holidays. Friday and Saturday saw a general advance of 25¢ to 30¢ with the bulk of little cattle going with a spread of $8.00 to $8.50. Better grades of butcher stock showed strong gains, the market having advanced 20 to 30 cents. Cutting-beef hoghogs to $5.00 and $5.15. Canners and cutters showed little improvement. Veal calves were up $1.00 to $1.10 over the previous week. Stockers and feeders were quiet.

Atmospheric Review.

Chicago—Owing to rain over parts of the Canadian northwest, wheat and barley were down 10¢ to 15¢ per bushel. Corn prices today were 20¢ to 25¢ lower than before.

Corn prices developed strength. After opening at 15¢ cent off, 15¢ cent gain, Sept. 22nd, the market scored a decided advance.

Subsequent upturns resulted from sympathy with strength in the com-market, but the effect failed to last. The market was weak, falling

Boosters Grab Wild Hitting Game from Milton, 12-10

Still in Lead; Cambridge Wins; Fort in Second

Given a merry chase by the Milton American Legion boys, the Janesville Boosters had to open up with all their heavy artillery at Charley Bluff on Lake Koshkonong on Sunday. They won from the Milton outfit, 12 to 10, but it was anybody's game until the last man was out.

The win keeps the Janesville on top of the Southern Wisconsin league with six straight wins. It was the eighth straight victory of the season for the locals.

While Janesville was engaging in this wild and wooly contest, Cambridge broke into the winning column, defeating Edgerton at the Tobacco City, 4 to 2.

Port Atkinson took undisputed possession of second place by trouncing Fredhead over in Green county, 11 to 4.

Pire on Hill

Sunday's victory for the Boosters goes down in the books to the credit of Les Pire, captain, who took the mound when no one else could be found to fill in an appearance from Culver, Ind. It was the first time in three years that "Slipper" has appeared upon the mound and he went like a big timer, outpitching "Iron Man" Crandall of the Milton Legionnaires.

Whatever may be said about the game, it can be written up as a slugging affair. The Janesites connected with 12 hits, seven of them doubles. Milton got 14 hits, among them three doubles.

A big clump of trees off in short right field proved almost to be the undoing of the Janesville outfit and that same bunch of timber undid the home team.

Setting up a lead of 7 to 1 by the fifth frame, it looked as if it was easy going for Janesville. During that time Pire had allowed the Milton club but three hits and had permitted but one man to get beyond second. Then things began to happen in triple order and before the home team was done, Milton had had the score.

From that time on, it was apparent that the team that could land on the ball the more often was going to get the bacon. It happened to be Janesville that did, although it turned out that every one of four runs scored by the Boosters in the ninth was initially valuable.

The Fun Starts

The Janes opened with real baseball in the first frame, scoring two counts on Rotherapy's single. Owen's sacrifice hit, "Pit" Gearin's double to left field, and Gregory's single to short center. In the last half of the stanza, Milton scored three. McNeitt, Owen, and Conroy, who started, were sacrificed to second by Randolph and was brought in by McNitt's single to Pire. Kukuske had been given a base on balls, but got mixed up in a double-play. It was a great play, started when Jackson threw home to get McNeitt and kept up when Gearin came back to Owen who caught McNitt at second and then Owen threw home again to Gregory who touched Kukuske out as he was dashing in.

Janesville scored in the second when Pemberton hit to short, went to second and then to third on two passed balls and romped over the platter on Jackson's sacrifice. The third out was made when one more of Pire's two batters to drop right and Oakley's error of Jackson's roller, Pire scoring. Seeing to sew things up, the Boosters counted three in the fifth on four hits. Owen flied out, Gearin hit to left, went to second on McNeitt's single to center and counted on Gregory's nice hit between first and short. In the fifth, Pire was sent to Perry. Thompson laid a slow one down the third base line and Condon came home.

Mabson of Edgerton was going good until the seventh. Wallin made first on Jackson's error, but Condon flied out on a fielder's choice that put C. Neupert on first. Baker started and Neupert went to third. Perry made a two-bagger, scoring Neupert and Parker. An error by Sweeney put O'Neill on first and Perry on third. Flemming failed to short, L. Hanson then singled, scoring Perry and O'Neill.

Box score:

Cambridge is Winner OVER TOBACCO, 4 TO 1

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)—Edgerton, the much-loved Cambridge boy, made a name for himself here Sunday by holding Edgerton with a 4 to 1 victory. It was the first win of the season for Cambridge and puts them in a tie for fifth place with the Tobacco City.

Edgerton was the first to score, went into the fourth, Condon started things with a two-bagger. Whitford was out. Wallace to Perry. Thompson laid a slow one down the third base line and Condon came home.
